

I grew up in rural Milton and am a Georgia Tech alum. I want to protect our community's rich heritage even as our city grows. I am a robotics engineer, not a politician. This is my strength; my engineer mindset allows me to see practical solutions where others are stuck on political opportunism.

There are three key areas that I will focus on in my first year as your representative: First, protecting life. 3000 children are killed by abortion every month in Georgia. We will protect life from conception to natural death. The number one job of the government is to protect life. This is a cause I am already championing.

Second, I will provide cost of living relief through tax cuts. Too many politicians promise tax relief but lower one tax only to raise another. I will cut wasteful government spending which will allow us to cut taxes across the board. For example, our government's computer infrastructure is aging and costly; by modernizing our infrastructure, we will cut costs and put money back in your pocket.

Third, AI is coming into our lives. New technology can be powerful, but it can also be dangerous. As a robotics engineer working on self-driving vehicles, I am the only candidate qualified to balance AI innovation with clear safety and accountability standards. AI is being used by doctors to identify new treatments. However, it is also being used for online scams targeting seniors and children, which must be stopped. The new technology needs a good steward to ensure our community benefits and is not being taken advantage of. I have that expertise.

Working at a Georgia startup, I am used to wearing many hats and solving hard problems with new technology. I know how to do more with less, a lesson our politicians need.

My campaign is built on my proven conservative track record. I have long fought for our basic rights to life and liberty. In 2020, I won my First Amendment lawsuit against the State of Georgia to protect our right to Free Speech. My lawsuit taught me to stay vigilant and unyielding.

I am a proven conservative with a plan of action. I have two pieces of draft legislation ready to go on Day One. I am ready to hit the ground running.

I will bring Biblical values to the Gold Dome. I have taken ZERO dollars from Special Interest lobbyists or PACs. I can't be bought. I work for you.

This letter, every direct mailer, and every advertisement is written and designed by me, not political consultants. When you vote for me, you know exactly who you are voting for: Brian Cochran.
