

Dear Neighbor:

My name is Jack Miller, and I am running to be your next State Representative for House District 47.

My wife and I both grew up in this community. I got involved with politics at a young age; I was passionate about the issues, wanted to vote, and, since I was not old enough, decided the next best thing was to get involved and work for Republican campaigns.

That decision set me on a path of service to conservative causes. After my wife and I graduated from the University of Georgia, we returned home to build our careers, start our family, and invest in the community that raised us. In recent years, I created the North Fulton Young Republicans to connect young professionals and families with local issues and demonstrate how conservative policies and local control help places like Milton thrive.

I am running because I believe too many people have lost faith in the American Dream. Young people, especially, are told their voices do not matter and that their future is bleak. Government alone cannot solve that problem, but strong leadership can create the conditions for opportunity. That means lowering the state income tax, freezing and rolling back property taxes, and reducing unnecessary regulations that quietly drive up costs for Georgians.

As a financial planner, I help families manage their finances, plan for the future, and navigate the impact of taxes and government policy every day. That experience gives me a practical understanding of how taxes, regulations, and government spending affect household budgets across our district.

Through my work with the Milton First Responders Foundation, Rotary, and the Milton Historical Society, I have listened to my neighbors and understand their concerns firsthand. I have served this community for many years, and I will never stop working for the place I call home.

If elected, my responsibility will be simple: to represent the people of House District 47 and no one else. I will not answer to special interests, lobbyists, or political leadership. I will answer to my neighbors who sent me to the Capitol.

My opponent is a good man, and we agree on many issues. As President Reagan said, "The person who agrees with you 80 percent of the time is a friend and an ally — not a 20 percent traitor." While we are competitors today, I respect him and consider him an ally in the conservative cause.

I would be honored to earn your vote. I view public office as a temporary calling, not a career. I am not running to build a lifetime in politics. I am running to serve for a short period of time, fight for this community, and then pass the torch to the next leader. Most importantly, I hope you judge me not only by the legislation I help pass, but by the bad legislation I help stop. Protecting Georgians from unnecessary government expansion is just as important as advancing good policy.

Thank you for your consideration and your vote.
